

ISW QUESTIONS

1.-How to represent an association class with cardinality equal n?

This is the solution that has come to my mind:

2.-Should an abstract class have a constructor?

Yes, program languages like Java have a constructor in abstract classes, you are just defining a default constructor that can be called in classes that extend this one.